

Our waterfront at Brighton Botanicals

We are very lucky to have a farm that borders on the beautiful Saint John River. We can go on many adventures here

In 2000, Lester scouted out a pathway to the waterfront which used to be an old farmroad but could barely be walked on.

With his trusty bush wacker—down he goes to blaze a trail (at 81 yrs old)

By 2001, we have a road way built.

Views of the farm from the waterfront in Spring and in the Fall

The Hugh John Flemming Bridge from different angles at the waterfront

Canoeing is fun from here

Elyse carries down the paddles while Andre carries the canoe

Rob goes fishing

Chance in his younger—more energetic days

Wild cucumber vine

Serge & Francine trek down with Serge leading the way.....with his buddy Chance.....

The gals go canoeing!!

Can you see them??

They had so much fun that they forgot to stop paddling once they hit land!!!

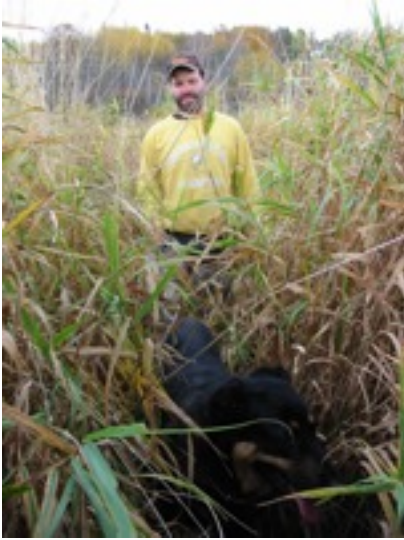

Fall river grass

Potential firewood

Beautiful and cheerful Francine who takes most of the pics.

Chance makes a path through the long grass

Chance remembers his younger days.

For more on the waterfront....
click here for

property mishaps

nettle from the waterfront

&

fiddleheading from the waterfront

